NINE MEN KILLED IN BREATHITT

Result of Rotten Election Methods Usual in That County.

Jackson Ky., Nov. 8.—Nine men were shot to death and six wounded in a battle and during sporadic fighting in three precincts of Breathitt county today. Another man was shot and seriously wounded last night as a prelude to today's battling. Two voting places were reported shot up today and ballots destroyed. Telephone lines were cut and voters intimidated.

Eight Killed in Battle.
Eight men were killed and four wounded in a pitched battle inside and about the door of Clayhole Precinct, twelve miles from here on Troublesome creek, as the polls were opened this morning.

The slain are:
Amberly Combs, 36 years old, Tom Centers, 60, Cleveland Combs, 35, Leslie Combs, 35, Fisher Allen, 31, John Roberts, 30, George Allen, 30, George McIntosh.

All the slain men were Democratic workers except Roberts and McIntosh, who were Republicans. All were married men with families.

The wounded are:
William Barnett, 50, married, Republican; condition serious.
Will Davis, 30, single, Republican.
Ed Davis, 48, married, Republican.
French Combs, 35, married, Democrat, condition serious.
Tom McIntosh, 35, single, Republican.

The others slain are:
K. K. Spencer, Democrat, election clerk, shot to death late this afternoon at Simpson Precinct fifteen miles from here on Big Frozen creek.

Nyvester Howard, Jr., 38, slain late yesterday at Spring Fork Precinct, near the Knott county line.

The other wounded man is:
Lloyd Napier, 40, Democrat, husband of Democratic candidate for jailer, ambushed on the way to Clayhole Precinct voting place; condition serious.

Battle Breaks Suddenly.
The battle at Clayhole Precinct occurred soon after the polls were opened and some time after the ambushing of Napier. Almost before one could realize that a fight was in progress, scores of shots had been fired and the victims were lying about the polling place, some dead and others dying.

According to one version of the affair, there had been reports last night that the election would be torn up when the polling place was opened this morning. The fact that telephone lines were cut gave strength to the belief that men were organized to carry on a fight.

Ed Combs, defeated candidate for County Judge at the recent primary, who has been supporting the Republican ticket, is said to have led a party of men who appeared at the voting place and demanded a fair election after a vote had been challenged. The battle according to this version, began when, after Combs refused to leave the room and take his followers away from the door, election officers attempted to remove him forcibly.

Woman Takes Part, Report.
Cleveland Combs, election clerk, was the first to fall. A witness to the shooting, who returned to Jackson last night, said Mrs. Combs, who said she had overheard a group of men plotting a raid on the polling place and who appeared in time to see her husband slain, knocked a pistol from Geo. McIntosh and shot him. She said McIntosh fired the shot which killed her husband, it was reported.

Efforts were made to reopen the polls after the fight, but it was found the ballots had been thrown into the creek and few of them could be used. Few persons were courageous enough to approach the polls after the battle, it was said.

It is believed that the loss of this precinct may swing the county election to the Republicans. The precinct was the stronghold of the Democrats and was considered the key to the outcome of the election in Breathitt.

SANSOM-BIAS WEDDING.
In the presence of only a few relatives and friends, the wedding of Miss Zuma Sansom, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Sansom of Wayne and Mrs. A. A. Bias, was quietly solemnized in the M. E. Parsonage at Portsmouth, O., a few days ago, says the Wayne News.

The Rev. Chas. Edward Chandler performed the ring ceremony in the most impressive manner. Mr. Bias is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bias of near Dunlow and is a telegraph operator at Glenhays. The bride is a teacher in Wayne county. After an extended tour to Washington, Boston and other points in the east the couple will be at home at Glenhays, W. Va. Mr. Bias met Miss Sansom while acting as relief agent at Wayne.

DUNLOW HOUSE BURNS.
The residence of Wayne Meade, Jr., of Dunlow was destroyed by fire Monday afternoon. The residence formerly occupied by J. H. Meek, is the largest building in Dunlow and was a well-built and beautiful structure.

ANOTHER ADVANCE IN OIL EXPECTED

Another advance in the price of Somerset is looked for by oil men within a short time. Already a premium of ten to fifteen cents on the barrel is being offered by some of the independent buyers, and it begins to look as though the advance should come sooner than was expected. It was maintained all along that crude would go to three dollars by the end of the year, if the rate of increase was kept up, and the indications are that before the end of the present week, a further stimulation in the price will come—Independent.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular meeting of the city council was adjourned from Tuesday night to Wednesday night. Barney Wellman was employed to keep the paved streets clean. It being the time for laying the levy for next year, the rate was fixed at 50c for general purposes and 25c for bonds, the same as this year.

After some routine business the council adjourned to November 22.

FEDERAL AID FOR KENTUCKY ROADS

Rohsion Bill Finally Passed By Congress Makes Money Available

The Federal aid road bill as agreed upon by the conference committee of the two houses of Congress has been passed and signed by the President.

Kentucky is entitled to $472,393 immediately, out of a total of $1,417,178, and West Virginia may have $802,360, of which $267,463 may be taken now.

In making public these allotments the department estimated that the employment of from 300,000 to 350,000 men in road building thus was made possible.

The Public Roads Bureau pointed out that while each state had to match the Federal appropriation, the effect on the unemployment situation need not be delayed for legislative action by states.

The allotments are based upon the present mileage of the states in relation to their population and acreage.

DEMOCRATS WIN IN KENTUCKY

Huge Democratic gains were scored throughout Kentucky in judicial, legislative and county races Tuesday. County after county which had not elected Democratic officials to any office for a score of years, elected all their Democratic nominees.

Both proposed amendments to the State Constitution, affecting the manner of choosing the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and the appointment of the State school fund seemed to have been decisively beaten.

Louisville remains in the Republican column by a much reduced majority. At the same time the Democrats gained four members of the Legislature from Louisville.

Grassup County Democratic. Every Democratic candidate in Greenup county was elected. They are as follows:

Representative, C. C. Oney.
Circuit Clerk, C. F. Spencer.
County Judge, L. E. Nichols.
County Attorney, Glen Miller, Republican. No opposition.

FRED M. VINSON ELECTED BY 857

In the race for Commonwealth's Attorney in this judicial district Fred M. Vinson, Democrat, young lawyer of Louisa, has a majority of 857. The district is normally republican by more than 1000.

He carried Elliott 674 and Lawrence 643. His opponent Mr. Cain, received 460 majority in Carter, according to the last report received.

Mr. Vinson led the Democratic ticket in Lawrence county, getting more than twice as great a majority as any other candidate.

MRS. FLANERY WINS IN BOYD COUNTY

Two democrats Tuesday won offices in the heads of Boyd county voters, according to complete returns here today.

Mrs. Mary Elliott Flanery, democrat, of Catlettsburg, has defeated Daniel Vose, republican incumbent, in the race for representative in the lower house of the Kentucky legislature. Her majority is 255.

J. G. Rucker, democrat, has beaten William H. Carr, republican, for county judge. He has a majority of 76 votes.

Mrs. Flanery received 4548 votes to 4293 for Mr. Vose. She will be the first woman elected to the general assembly of a southern state.

Judge Kennedy, democrat, is re-elected Police Judge of Ashland. In all other county races the republicans won.

Dr. W. M. Sallisbury had no opposition for Mayor of Ashland.

Floyd County Democrats Elect All Candidates

The district composed of Floyd and Knott counties has had a Republican Circuit Judge for six years—Judge Patrick. On Tuesday W. W. Williams, Democrat, defeated him for reelection by nearly 4000 votes. He had 2400 majority in Floyd.

Claude Stephens is elected Commonwealth's Attorney. Floyd gave him 896 majority.

W. A. Wallen wins for Representative by 1559.

Edward Hill is elected County Judge by 803.

John Hatcher for County Clerk wins by 153.

Porter Mayo beat Wm. Dingess for County Attorney by 985.

M. V. Allen defeated Stanley for Sheriff by 1400. Stanley was formerly a Democrat and was elected Co. Judge, but lately changed his politics.

Henry Stephens is elected Circuit Clerk by 750.

Deep Test Well in Magoffin Abandoned

The Bedrock Oil Company has been forced to abandon a test well in Magoffin county at a depth of 3855 feet. The tools were stuck in the well and all efforts to extricate them failed. The well was started last March. Nothing of value was found in the way of oil deposits. The well is on Jack Whitaker's place.

AN APPRECIATION

To The People of the 32nd Judicial District:—

Words do not express the appreciation which I feel toward my friends for the glorious vote recorded for me at the election. It was the most splendid vote of confidence that could be accorded to me. I am, indeed, grateful, and full of thanks to my most loyal friends. "Fair weather" friends do not count; it is "the friend in need, that is the friend indeed."

There is an adverse majority in this district of more than 1,250 votes, and for my friends, both Democrats and Republicans alike, to overturn such a vast majority, and in lieu thereof, give to me the handsome and unprecedented majority of 857 votes, does, of necessity, fill my heart with joy to overflowing. The joy which pervades my being, however, is tempered and shadowed with the thought of responsibility which will fall upon my shoulders. However, I have sought this responsibility, and you have given it to me, and I, willingly, assume it.

I call upon you, as citizens of this district to assist me in the performance of my official duties. My only campaign promise, which I now repeat, is "a fair square deal for all persons, regardless of wealth, politics or religious creed."

To those of you who espoused the cause of my opponent, I have no hatred or feeling of revenge, and, in the words of our immortal Lincoln, I will enter upon and discharge the duties imposed upon this office, "with malice toward none, with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the light."

Your grateful friend,

Fred M. Vinson

LEGISLATURE WILL BE DEMOCRATIC

Dr. Whitaker Wins in 34th and Insures Control of State Senate.

Returns received from the Thirty-fourth Senatorial District indicate the re-election of Dr. J. D. Whitaker of Carmel City, Democrat, to the Senate, by a substantial plurality. If Dr. Whitaker has won, as the figures seem to show, it means that the Democrats will control the Senate, 20 to 18, and will be able to organize that branch of the General Assembly, elect the president pro tem and other officers, and draw up the rules of procedure. The Democrats will control the House by at least twenty-four majority.

With Breathitt county not yet officially reported, Dr. Whitaker was said to have carried his own county, Morgan, by 1,675, and Wolfe by from 200 to 300. His opponent, M. S. Crain of Jackson, Republican, was credited with carrying Lee county by 437, and Magoffin county by 513. This apparently gave the present Senator a lead of 495 to 1,045, to offstand any lead which his opponent may have had in Breathitt county.

Wayne to Vote Again on County Seat Removal

November 21 is the date set for another vote on removal of the county seat from Wayne to Kenova. A petition of 6186 names, and bond for expenses was filed with the court Monday.

LETCHER COUNTY.

The strong Republican county of Letcher elected a Democratic county judge and circuit clerk and gave Judge Childers 1500 majority. Fess Whitaker came within 80 votes of beating the Republican candidate for Sheriff.

PIKE AND LETCHER ELECT DEMOCRATS

Childers Defeats Vanover for Circuit Judge in That District.

One of the biggest Democratic victories in Eastern Kentucky was that of Judge Joel E. Childers, who defeated Judge Roscoe Vanover for re-election as Circuit Judge in the Pike and Letcher district by about 2500. The normal republican majority is 5000 to 6000.

The Democratic candidate for jailer, E. P. Runyon, won, and also another democrat, so we are informed, but did not get his name or office.

Later:—Judge Childers majority is between 4500 and 5000.

The Democrats elected every candidate they had for county offices, as follows: D. C. Moore circuit clerk; J. E. Runyon county clerk; Groves C. Rowe jailer; T. J. Anderson surveyor; Tom Wolford coroner. Five out of 8 magistrates are Democrats.

Train No. 15 to Stop at Glenhays on Flag

The Public Service Commission of West Virginia has directed the Norfolk & Western railway to stop train No. 15 at Glenhays, W. Va., 10 miles east of Louisa and Fort Gay, for the purpose of receiving passengers holding tickets to Kenova and points west, effective Nov. 20th. This is the result of an appeal from patrons of the road to stop trains 15 and 16. The matter went to the Public Service Commission with the result above stated. The train service would be very greatly improved if trains 15 and 16 would stop at Glenhays on flag or otherwise, without the Kenova restriction. Glenhays is a central point for a considerable territory that has no adequate train service.

ONLY THE REPUBLICANS WITHOUT OPPOSITION CAME THROUGH SAFELY

The election Tuesday resulted in a clean sweep for the Democratic ticket in Lawrence county. The majorities range from 45 to 643.

The Democrats had no names on the ballots for circuit clerk and county clerk, their nominees having been disqualified by failure to file certificates of nomination in time. 554 voters wrote the name of H. B. Hewlett on the ballots for circuit clerk and 138 wrote W. A. Arrington's name for county clerk.

Amendment No. 1 to the constitution received 300 votes for and 298 against. Amendment No. 2 got 374 yes and 270 no.

Voters in the three Democratic magisterial districts wrote in the names of Add Skeens, Silas Jobe and V. B. Shortridge for Justice of the Peace and elected them.

G. G. Roberts and A. J. Webb, Jr., were elected on the County Board of Education.

Dr. R. C. Moore, Democrat, is elected Representative from Lawrence and Elliott, without opposition.

Fred M. Vinson for Commonwealth's Attorney, led the ticket with a majority of 643.

Circuit Judge, H. L. Woods, R., no opposition.

Representative, R. C. Moore D., no opposition.

Com. Atty., F. M. Vinson. Co. Judge, M. B. Sparks. Co. Atty., G. W. Castle. Circuit Clerk, W. S. Boggs, Republican.

Co. Clerk, Chas. Edwards, Republican.

Sheriff, J. Walter Young. Jailer, C. C. Skaggs.

Tax Com., D. M. Curnutte. Surveyor, L. E. Wallace.

Robt. W. Vinson, brother of Fred, ran for magistrate on a Good Roads ticket in Rockcastle, Peach Orchard and Gambill precincts and tied with the Republican nominee, Dave Sammons.

The district is normally Republican by a large majority. It is said a recount will be made.

The table is taken from the certificates brought in, and is believed to be correct. The official count will take place Friday.

Result in City of Louisa Election

The present city administration of Louisa was turned down by the voters in the election Tuesday and the following officers were elected:

FOCH AT TOMB OF WASHINGTON

It was an inspiring moment for those permitted to be present, when Marshal Foch, commander-in-chief of allied armies, visited the tomb of Washington on his second day in America. The great French hero placed a wreath in tribute to the genius of Washington. Foch's arrival in America for the American Legion convention at Kansas City and attendance at the Armament conference in Washington, marked the start of the most enthusiastic reception ever accorded a foreign visitor. All the way across the continent, Marshal Foch and General Pershing were met by record crowds, who cheered until Foch himself was often moved to tears of appreciation.

DEWEY MOORE

Is he dead? No, there is no death. The stars go down to rise up on some fairer shore. Our loved ones have been promoted to nobler sphere and they are more alive now than they were with us. Only a few short weeks ago he as in our midst, full of life and joyous expression, like sunshine in a world of darkness, but a passing cloud cast the dark shadow between him and us and the light was eclipsed on this side of the scene, but not so on the other. The mists that becloud our vision here will evolve into stars of brightest light over there.

Dewey Moore was born in Floyd county and moved to this place when a small boy. While he had not been a Christian up to the time of his illness, yet he was a quiet amiable, obedient young man. Dewey had a very severe attack of flu, developing into tuberculosis, finally ending his earthly career. He bore his suffering patiently. Not one time did he murmur or complain, but seemed to trust all in the Lord and openly declared that he was the only one that could help him. He told his friends around him he was ready to go and only awaited the summons.

Dewey thought there was no one like mother, and he said a few days before he died, "mother, don't weep for me for I'm prepared to die." Dewey was loved by all who knew him.

He leaves to mourn their loss a mother and six sisters and three brothers. A father and two brothers and two sisters had already preceded him to the glory land. Dewey was a member of the I. O. O. F. of Buchanan. The brothers took charge of the casket from the home and brought to Mt. Zion cemetery and laid beside his brother, Fred. No more waiting for his return, but prepare to meet him.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried everything I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since. I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too. At all druggists. E 35

ARMISTICE DAY

Three years ago, the boom of the last gun echoed over the battlefield, and the greatest catastrophe in human history had passed the crisis.

Today the nations gather around the conference table in Washington at the call of the President of our country, to stop the war industry and promote the industries of peace, to make the world happier by ridding it of its greatest curse; to promote a better era by creating a better understanding among the peoples.

Even to lift the staggering burden of war expenditures will be a wonderful work, but the even greater work before the conference will be written in the pages of history.

Instead of lamenting and grumbling about the illicit liquor traffic the people who voted it out should be active in having the laws enforced. Also, they should help to secure the enactment of laws to cure the defects that have been found in the statutes after the numerous tests that have been made. Decisions of the higher courts annul many laws and change many others so as to leave them ineffectual. Let not the law-loving citizens give up the fight or lag in their duty. The big battle has been won but there are smaller ones on hand and ahead of us to complete the victory. Let all "dry" men and women assert themselves and the traffic will be stamped out. Public sentiment can suppress any movement or any set of outlaws.

He Found Buying At Home Was The Best After All!

J. M. Bright, a garage man and automobile tire dealer of Keyser, W. Va., tells a pretty interesting little story which he calls "An Example of Retail Mail-Order Dealing." Bright's story should be interesting to Wayne county merchants and the buying public also. It's this:

Down in a certain town the other day a man went into a store to buy an automobile tube. He saw the kind he wanted and asked the price. It was $2.20, the dealer said.

"Good gracious," said the man, "I can get the same thing from a mail-order house for $2.25."

"That's less than it costs me," said the dealer, "but I'll sell it on the same terms as the mail-order house just the same."

"Alright," said the customer, "You can send it along and charge it to my account."

"Not on your life," the dealer replied. "No charge accounts. You can't do business with the mail-order house that way. Fork over the cash."

The customer handed over the cash. "Now two cents for postage and five cents for the money order."

"What?"

"Certainly you have to send a letter and a money order to the mail-order house, you know."

The customer, inwardly raving, kept to his agreement and paid the seven cents.

"Now thirty-five cents expressage."

"Well, I'll be—," he said, but paid it saying: "Now hand me that tube and I'll take it home for myself and be rid of this foolery."

"Hand it to you? Where do you think you are? You're not in Chicago, and you'll have to wait a week for that tube."

Whereupon he placed the tube on the shelf and put the money in his cash drawer.

"That makes $2.26," he said. "It has cost you six cents more and taken you a week longer to get it than if you had paid my price in the first place."

Born in Pike county, Ky., Mr. Fuller came to Wayne county in early life and had resided here ever since. He was twice married and the following children all from his first union, survive: Oliver, Thomas J. and John W. Fuller, all of whom reside in this community and two daughters, Mrs. Eliza Reese of Andover, Va., and Mrs. Rebecca Newman of Cincinnati, and his widow—Ceredo Advance

MISS BENNIE ALLEY AND MR. JAMES FUGATE MARRY

Saturday afternoon, Nov. 5, 1921, Miss Bennie Alley, the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Alley and Mr. James Fugate were united in marriage by the Rev. S. F. Reynolds. Those witnessing the ceremony were Miss Cosby Alley, a sister of the bride and Miss Eliza Ranson.

Mrs. Fugate was beautifully dressed in a becoming brown suit. She is well known in this county having been for the past few years one of our most successful teachers. She was graduated from the Business Department of college in the class of 1920. She is greatly admired by all who know her.

Mr. Fugate is an industrious young man and is very highly respected. He has just recently returned from Logan, W. Va., where he has employment.

This is a very deserving young couple and the people of our community extend to them hearty congratulations and good wishes for a long and happy life.

THIS IS ARMISTICE DAY.

Today, Friday, November 11, is Armistice Day.

It is a legal holiday and will be observed by banks and many other institutions. It celebrates the end of the awful World war, three years ago.

The Fatal "Valuation" of New Tariff Bill

The "American valuation" provision of the Fordney tariff is obnoxious because it is a subterfuge. It is an effort to conceal an increase of duties. If Mr. Fordney wishes to make a duty 100 per cent instead of 50, let him put it in plain figures instead of making the duty 50 per cent and doubling the sum on which it is to be computed. It is obnoxious because it will increase duties beyond all reason and justification. The increased duties will increase the cost of living and will exclude imports. This will cut off revenue and restriction of imports will in turn restrict exports. Exports are absolutely necessary to keep our factories busy, and foreigners cannot buy of us unless they can sell to us.

It is obnoxious because the basis cannot be established with any accuracy. Domestic prices vary from time to time and in different localities. The Custom House will have to tabulate a great many prices and get at an average, and an average must be wrong at many times and places.

It is obnoxious because the importer cannot tell what duty he will have to pay, and until he knows that he cannot fix his selling prices. The invoice shows what he paid for his foreign goods. If that differs materially from the prices in the open market it is not difficult to ascertain the fact. The importer knows the penalties for undervaluation, and unless he is deliberately trying to cheat the Government he avoids it. Under the "American valuation" plan he cannot know what the duty will be until he has entered the goods at the Custom House and the appraisers have decided in their own way what the value of the goods here is.

It is obnoxious because the duty is progressive. The duty added to the foreign price becomes a new domestic price, and the 40 per cent or 100 per cent or whatever it may be, becomes a new basis for the imposition of the duty. Take a foreign article worth $1 and subject to a duty of 50 per cent. That makes the cost, duty paid, $1.50. If the tariff is as nicely adjusted as it purports to be, we may assume that the approximate American valuation is $1.50. But if the duty is 50 per cent on that it amounts to 75 per cent, and the price, duty paid, is $2.25. The manufacturers will take advantage of the duty to mark their prices up to $2.25. This, then, is a new American valuation and the next importation will be assessed at $3.375. This makes a new American valuation, and another 50 per cent will be assessed, and the price could go on indefinitely if people bought the goods. As a matter of fact, people could not buy them. The Government would lose the revenue, the foreigner could not sell in this market, and his country's ability to buy in this country would be curtailed.

Our exports of fully manufactured goods, ready to enter into consumption, are three and a half times as great as our imports of manufactured goods. It is of vast importance to our producers, farmers and manufacturers to save our export trade.

November 12 to 19 has been designated as Junior Club Enrollment Week for the State of Kentucky, so boys and girls between ages of 10 and 18 get busy and get your name in to your County Agent during that week or soon afterwards, so you may be able to attend the big club camp to be held next summer in this county. You will remember that this year any boy or girl was allowed to attend, but next year you must be a club member. Now you can join the club without buying a pig, or being out any expense, you can enroll to grow some crop, chickens or some other animal that you have at home or some other crop, such as corn, tomatoes, melons or most any crop you prefer, but you must join the club and do the work under the supervision of your County Agent. He will be glad to help you and to have you in the club and he wants you to attend the big club camp next year. So write your County Agent a letter and ask for an application card. Remember any boy or girl between 10 and 18, inclusive, of both ages are eligible and you must join before you can attend the camp. We can have a camp of our own county if we can guarantee 200 members will be there. Get busy and let's make it 300 strong.

Yours for a camp in 1922.
G. C. BAKER, County Agent.

Magoffin Is Second In Oil Output Value

Frankfort.—Magoffin county in the new Eastern Kentucky field, though fourth in production, ranks second in the value of its oil produced in September. Warren county, second in production, is fourth in the value of its oil.

The total production of oil of the State for September was 719,695 barrels, compared to 803,083 in August, but the value in September was $1,048,620 while the value of the August production was $870,865, showing the effect of the increased price of oil.

The State received 10,486 tax on the production. Lee county led with 825,821 barrels, valued at $470,820. Warren came next with 98,141 barrels, valued at $101,519. Estill was third with 69,152 barrels, valued at $109,390, and Magoffin fourth with 65,850 barrels, valued at $117,506.

Moonshine Causes Another Murder

James Turner is held in the Catlettsburg jail charged with the murder of Arthur Lakens of that city, whose body was found floating down the Ohio river in a skiff near Greenup Sunday. From what can be learned, Lakens, who is tender at the lock at Catlettsburg, went to Turner's boat in company with his brother to get some moonshine, which Turner made. A fight started, and the brother ran, and during the fight Lakens was killed and his body placed in a skiff and put out in the river.

Officers went to the scene, and brought the boats to this city as they were on this side of the river. The still, which was still warm when found by the officers, is the largest ever captured in this county.—fronton News.

Nation Faces Oil and Gas Famine, Says Year's Survey

Chicago.—A report was made by the gas and oil committee of the American Gas Association at the annual convention of the organization said that the United States will face an oil famine which will restrict the use of automobiles and increase the cost of gasoline unless immediate steps are taken to increase the supply. The committee had made a year's survey of the oil situation.

The report declared that a duty on petroleum would curtail shipments from Mexico and greatly aggravate the situation.

CHURCH ANNOUNCEMENTS

M. E. CHURCH SOUTH.

Last Sunday the weather was ideal and the children and adults took advantage of the day and turned out well for Sunday school. The church services morning and night were well attended, and at each of these services the pastor, Rev. Holt, preached splendid sermons. At the morning service he used as a text the 19th verse of the 1st chapter of 1st Timothy: "Holding faith and a good conscience; which some having put away concerning faith have made shipwreck."

Faith and conscience, conscience and faith, were discussed jointly and severally by him in an able, eloquent, forceful and spiritual way. The subject of faith is a deep one and this christian orator said, "I know I am getting into deep water but hope to make a safe landing," and he did.

From the day when Abraham set forth from the plain of Shinar, not knowing whether he was going, the advent of faith has invited the challenge and courage of men but this able preacher, feeling his way and preaching as he went, did not fail to arouse his hearers from their lethargy, but moved strong men to tears. Those hearing this sermon were fortunate, those failing to be present lost much. At the close of the sermon the solemn rite of the sacrament of the "Lord's Supper" was engaged in and a large number communed, and all together it was a splendid helpful service. For some time past the laymen of the church have been conducting the mid-week prayer meetings with much success and the pastor is arranging to have the Men's Bible class and other classes of the Sunday school to conduct the evening or night services and these services will have a well arranged program of special music, talk and prayers by the laymen of the church and others who will take part and this effort should meet the hearty approval of the church and Sunday school and each one should be willing when called upon to take part. These special services should be productive of much good. REPORTER.

We have with us in this community many valued citizens whose home towns are in other parts of the country. Circumstances that are our good fortune as much as theirs, have made it to their interests to settle there. They have established homes and built for themselves many warm friendships. But the "old home," the home of childhood, is somewhere else. Oft must come to them fond recollections that go back to the home of their girlhood and their boyhood days; back to the people there whom they knew and loved; back to the scenes that were so familiar and will always remain intimate until the last call arrives to still another home. It is no reflection on a man or woman that his or her heart retains a place for the old home town and that he sometimes dreams of it. Sentimentality? Certainly, but such a sentiment is good and wholesome and is the mark of a human heart that can be trusted and loved. To these of our fellow citizens we address this suggestion: That they take advantage of the idea behind the "Subscribe to the Home Paper" week, in order that, during the coming year, they shall receive regularly each week their old home newspaper and see the names and hear of the people they used to know in the happy old days when they lived in the good old home. You know the paper's name, fellow citizen! Send on your subscription!

Life As A Business Proposition. (By Dr. Frank Crane)

Life has been called all sorts of things. Life is a dream, a gambling game, an opportunity from which to get all the fun and the least gain possible, a probationary preparatory to the next life, a vale of tears, and so on. Suppose we consider life as a business proposition. Look at it from a practical, profit-and-loss, shrewd and commonsense viewpoint. Very well. First, what can we get out of it? Only wages. There are no endowed and privileged ones, all are day laborers; for every one, when the work's over, must leave all he has gained and go back to that nothingness from which he came as stark naked and poor as when he arrived. All the billionaire gets out of life is exactly what the bricklayer gets, his board and clothes and amusement. What is the wages of life? Life's pay is happiness. On Life's book, happiness is credit and unhappiness debit. It's happiness we all strive for, of one kind or another, whether beer and cakes or turtled feasts, overalls or dress-suits, pinhole on a cracker box or stock gambling on the market, social distinction, wealth display, political success, intellectual achievement. It's all happiness, according to taste. How is happiness to be secured, how can one be sure to get his pay? By finding out what he really wants. This is not easy. Most people work a lot for what they think other people think they want. How can one find that out? By experimenting, trying out various activities until he finds the one in which he can most enthusiastically express himself. Also by ascertaining those forms of pleasure that are frauds and bring on misery. The conclusive argument against drunkenness, licentiousness and the like, is that they are swindles, gold bricks; they promise joy and pay suffering. How should one get his pay? Every day. Not at the end of the task. Unless every day brings its satisfaction, you are cheating yourself. How can one tell what sort of things pay and what sort do not pay? By the collective experience of mankind, and by accepting the guidance of reliable teachers. What does the culminative experience of mankind show? That only those acts which are fundamentally just, fair, honest and kind are those that invariably pay. Why work? If it's happiness that is our wage, why not eat, drink and be merry; why not loaf and play? Because human beings are so constituted that they secure the maximum of satisfactory self-expression only by doing some part of the world's work. What we call goodness more than pays every day, it leaves something over, a deposit in the happiness bank, which becomes a reserve fund from which we draw dividends. The good are the happiness capitalists. The bad are the happiness spend-thrifts. Why not approach this matter of good and bad, conscience or self-indulgence as a business proposition? One thing that has gone out of style which we all bitterly regret is the old fashioned Sunday dinner. Everything during the week lead up to that meal. It was the peak of culinary art. Sunday always started with a hectic rush. No matter how soon the family started getting ready for church, they never were ready for church, they never were ready on time. Always at the last moment everybody lost some article of wearing apparel or a hole was discovered in somebody's stocking. At last, just before the prayer, the family would file into church and father would sink back with a sigh of relief and marvel that they were really all there. Mother didn't marvel however. She had had too much to do with getting them there. With what gusto every one sang the Doxology and how hungry they were on the way home. Just a little wait and they sat down to that gorgeous feast the "Sunday dinner." A man who has played eighteen holes of golf doesn't work up a healthier appetite than did those church goers. And of course on Sunday, all of the best linen and silverware were forthcoming. And there was nearly always company. Sometimes twenty or thirty people would sit down at that long table each one arrayed in his "Sunday best," each face shining in anticipation and each appetite whetted to the nth degree. Yes, the Sunday dinner as we used to know it, is a thing of the past and we regret to lose it with its hospitality and its good cheer. Uncle John's Josh

Poem by Uncle John

NEIGHBORS

When a feller loves his neighbor, like the ten commandments means, it lifts up common people to the stage of kings an' queens; there's music floatin' everywhere, on every balmy breeze, an' the harmony is echoed by the robins in the trees. The devil never camps around a lovin' neighborhood, an' there ain't no "latest gossip" to pizen people's blood, but there's borrowin' an' lendin' with a willin' heart an' hand, an' a wholesome lendin' spirit that the children understand. I never liked to be afraid of trampin' some ones toes, nor to see a skyward angle onto Mrs. Henpeck's nose,—an' the time when I was sicked, which it lasted mornin' a week, was when I jawed at Blikins, an' neither wouldn't speak. There's lots of sorry pastime that associates with gall, but fussin' with a neighbor is the sorriest of 'em all.

For your Uncle John.

$10,000,000 AID FOR VETERANS

Red Cross Provides Friendly Service of Many Kinds to Army of Disabled.

BULK OF WORK BY CHAPTERS

2,397 of These Are Helping Ex-Servicemen Obtain Benefits U. S. Provides.

One field of Red Cross service alone, that of assisting disabled veterans of the World War, entails expenditures $4,000,000 greater than the aggregate receipts of the Annual Roll Call of 1920, the American Red Cross announced in a statement urging a widespread increase in membership at the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24. At the present time National Headquarters and the nation-wide chain of Chapters of the Red Cross is spending approximately $10,000,000 annually for the relief of disabled ex-service men and their families, while the aggregate receipts from last year's Roll Call were approximately $6,000,000.

It is in the 2,397 of the 3,190 Red Cross Chapters which still are helping solve the veteran's problem of adjusting himself to a normal civilian status that the greater part of the cost of this service is borne. Of the total sum spent for veterans' relief last year, National Headquarters expended a total of more than $2,600,000, while the remaining disbursement of approximately $7,000,000 represents the contribution of Chapters in this country-wide effort to assist the Government in providing the aid sorely needed by these men and their families.

An Ever Expanding Problem
That the problem of the disabled service man is ever-expanding and probably will not reach the peak before 1925, is the assertion of well-informed Government officials and that 2,397 Red Cross Chapters regard it as their most important work is evidence that the expansion is in nowise confined to a particular section but is, on the contrary, nation-wide. At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1921, there were 26,300 disabled service men in the 1,092 United States Public Health Service, Contract and Government Hospitals and Soldiers Homes, and that number is increasing at a rate of 1,000 a month.

Thousands of these men receiving medical treatment, compensation and vocational training from the Government today, started their efforts to obtain them through the Red Cross Chapter. The Chapter, acting as the disabled man's agent in claims against the Government, informs the man as to the procedure necessary to gain for him that which is provided him by Federal statute. His applications for compensation, medical treatment and training are properly filed with the aid of the Red Cross Chapter.

Many Forms of Assistance
If there is delay before the man's claim is acted upon, the Red Cross Chapter lends the man money to meet the imperative needs of himself and his dependents.

Most vital to the man's gaining full benefit from the Government's care in keeping his mind free from worry about his home. Keeping the veteran's family from hardship of every kind and informing him of its welfare is another province of the Chapter. Free from fear on this score, the man's recovery and advancement usually is rapid.

Every month during the last year, the American Red Cross has given service of one kind or another to an average of 129,215 former service men and their families. An indication of the extent of the faith reposed in the Red Cross Chapter is to be found in the fact that there were 350,544 requests for friendly aid in the solution of personal problems.

448 Workers in Hospitals

While the man prior to entering Government care deals largely with the Chapter, afterward he comes into contact with the service provided by National Headquarters. There are 448 Red Cross workers in the United States Public Health Service and contract hospitals and other institutions in which these men are being cared for, whose duty it is to provide for his recreation, help him with his compensation claims, keep him in touch with his family; in short, meeting his every need outside of that provided by the Government. While these are a few of the responsibilities of the National Organization, they are by no means all. Among other Red Cross accomplishments for the year are:

It handled 70,732 allotment and allowance claims.
It delivered through its Chapter organization 63,655 allotment checks to veterans who had moved from the addresses furnished to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

It provided a special fund of $10,000 for medical assistance to men under vocational training.
It made 82,465 loans totaling $450,000 to men taking vocational training, of which 85 per cent has been repaid.

A Shattered Romance

By WILLIAM FAUL

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Why the story told by this simple country girl in the Pullman brought tears to Miss Agnes Dare's eyes the latter could not imagine. It was only after she knew how deeply she was moved that she discovered the reason. It was her girlhood story over again. It was because Miss Dare is so well known that I have called her by this name de plume. Her married life has been presented to the attention of scanda-loving readers on the front pages of the most popular journals not once or twice, but at least ten times.

Just now she was traveling alone across the continent to open in Los Angeles, thankful enough for the brief respite from popularity which enabled her to assume her real name. But for us she is still Miss Dare.

And this simple country girl had got on with some man whose face Miss Dare had not seen at Fort Tyson, and she was traveling to Denver. Miss Dare, seeing that she was distressed, had sat beside her and the girl had little by little told her the whole story.

She was a rancher's daughter, and it was the old tale of a monstrous farm life with no distraction, and the brilliant actor, Charles Montford, whose fancy she had caught while his troupe played two nights at the county capital. And they were to be married at Denver. Wasn't it a wonderful romance!

Clarence had met some friends of his and he had told her to sit still and not to speak to anyone, and she knew that she was doing very wrong to disobey him and talk as she was talking now. But Clarence had some important business affairs to settle in the end car, he said. And when, after an hour's obedience the girl had gone timidly back to the end car to look for Clarence, she found him drinking. Then Miss Dare found that there were tears in her eyes, too. Her mind went back for nearly 20 years to a little farm house in Iowa, and an old father and mother, and a traveling troupe, and a man. . . . Well, she had discovered about his marriage long afterward. And it was years since he had crossed her life. He must be forty now.

She took the girl's hand between her own and began to talk to her. "But my father would never let me marry an actor," exclaimed the girl. "You know, we folks have strange ideas out on the ranches." And Clarence had been the first to explain to her the impossibility of that.

Then Miss Dare began explaining her views until she saw the scared look that came in the girl's face; then she tried to console her. And just then, happening to look up, she saw somebody at the end of the car, walking rather indirectly, and hastily she excused herself and hurried toward him.

The man looked down. "Hello!" he said, smiling stupidly. "Hello! Why? Why?" Suddenly his face blanched and he sat down heavily upon a seat.

Miss Dare did not let go his arm for an instant.

"Listen to me, you—" she could not find a suitable term of address. "Listen to me," she said. "You know me, don't you? Well, you are going to that little girl in No. 5, and you are going to tell her that you have made a mistake. Do you understand? And then—we shall be at Dry Lake in five minutes. You get off at Dry Lake."

He swore at her. "What has it to do with you?" he sneered. "You—go—now," she whispered hoarsely. "You know the abduction laws of Colorado? Yes, you go!" She watched him pass along the aisle and saw him bend over the girl and speak. She saw the girl start up, clinging to the velvet cushions of the Pullman. Then the train slowed down, and the train was pulling into Dry Lake. The girl was going to scream. Miss Agnes Dare got there in time, and a moment later she was knocking Clarence Montford all over the car.

That was the latest of the Dare scandals, and Miss Agnes' photograph was prominently displayed as usual on the front pages of the newspapers from New York to San Francisco.

Miss Agnes read it and smiled. Life has its compensations, and there is a letter in her hand which she reads sometimes when things have gone badly with her. It is from a girl in Tyson; and she reflects that if she has ruined her own life she may have saved another.

On the Arm?

The motion picture was a lavish spectacle of a day and time described with surprising accuracy by the producers as "one thousand and one years ago." To all appearances, its every scene was a most faithful and painstaking replica of the costumes, buildings and people of that period. Every care had been taken to avoid any anachronism. But the vigilant eye of the picture fan could not be fooled. The enchantress of the harem raised her bare arm, and one in the audience spoke.

"A thousand and one years ago, eh? I didn't know they vaccinated people in those days."

Take Your Choice of Poisons.

Thirty-two new poisons were discovered during the great war in munition experiments in the United States alone.

REQUIRES BRAINS.

A certain Englishman, famous for his erudition, played such a wretched game on the links that he remarked one day to his caddy, "How is it that I, a man acquainted with the arts and sciences, cannot play this confounded game of golf?"

"Well," said the caddy, "it's like as ye ken a' about yer sma' affairs, an' w' things connect w' them, but ye man understand that it tak's a held to play gowf."

Some Relief.

Flatbush—So you threw your alarm clock out of the window at a howling cat last night, did you?

Bensonhart—I certainly did. "Why, say, you wouldn't hit a cat in a thousand years!"

"I know it; but I felt very certain that I would get rid of one of the nuisances, sayway!"

Interest Secure.

"I don't believe Josh is interested in the dear old house," remarked Farmer Cornstossel sadly. "Yes, he is," replied Josh's mother, "and he's goin' to keep on bein' interested regardless of pleasures and palaces, so long as the old home is the only place where three meals per day are absolutely reliable."

WISE GUY

"Jack's the most bashful man I ever saw. He never tried to kiss me once when he called last week."

"That's not bashfulness. That's fear. I told him you'd push a man's face in if they'd try anything like that."

The Apple of His Eye.

A peach came walking down the street; She was more than passing fair; A smile, a nod, a half-closed eye, And the peach became a pair.

—Cornell Widow.

Taking a Sporting Chance.

"We are going at a frightful rate of speed, conductor."

"Only 60 miles an hour, m's'm."

"But isn't that too fast for safety?"

"It depends on the point of view, m's'm. If we don't get to Hawkins' Junction before the limited does, we won't get there at all."

The Sporting Instinct.

The waiter in a railway buffet came to the table where a passenger was seated.

"Ten or coffee, sir?" he asked. "Don't tell me," begged the passenger, earnestly, "don't tell me, just let me guess."

In Fact, Snappy Stories.

Wrightman—Well, I've just signed a contract with the editor of Pudley's Magazine.

His Wife—Selling stories?

"Re-yes; I'm to think up excuses for the editor so that he can stay out late at night."

Delay Appreciated.

Mrs. Kinck—Really, I am ashamed of myself for not calling before, but I put it off until it seemed as if I should never call.

Mrs. Knox—Oh, pray, don't mention it. Very kind of you, I'm sure.

Maan.

"Ma, teacher's awful mean."

"Hush, my son, you mustn't say that."

"Well, she is! What do you think? She borrowed my knife to sharpen a pencil to give me a bad mark."

THE BATTLE'S ON

Jack: Say! Waddayuh doin' with a trombone? Gonna take lasagne?

Jill: Nope! I am buyin' this trombone in self-defense.

Jack: A trombone in self-defense? Jill: Yaal Yuh see tha neighbors in the next apartment to us have just bought a playboy piano.

Color Not Important.

We'd be a blonde or deep brunette; We really don't care which, So long as we're not sick abed, And reasonably rich.

Would Look Better.

Automobile Salesman—Want your monogram or initials on the car? Buyer (smilingly)—As my name happens to be Isaac O. Urbridge, better make it the monogram.

Signs of Decay.

Bix—Noodle says he is the last actor of an ancient but decayed family.

Dix—That's probably why everything he says is such awful rot.

Her Prerogative.

Heck—Have you decided what you are going to call the baby, old man?

Peck—Yes; I'm going to call him whatever my wife names him.

BLONDE AND BRUNETTE.

MISSING AN OPPORTUNITY.

There is often fun at the baseball grounds outside of the game, especially among the boys who try to see the game without being admitted.

One youngster who was fortunate enough to find a knothole in the fence was heard to shout to another who was munching away on a juicy apple:

"Say, I'll quit this hole if you'll give me a couple of them."

"Go on!" was the reply. "You can't see through the gnks on t'other side of the fence."

"Oh right, sonny," was the rejoinder, "keep 'em. But that's where you missed it, for there's a sawed-off guy in front of this hole, and there ain't nobody in front of him. See?"

Why He Picked Pictish.

An English mother was visiting her son at college.

"Well, dear," she said, "whnt languages have you decided to take?"

"I have decided to take Pictish, mother," he replied.

"Pictish?" said the puzzled lady. "Why Pictish?"

"Only five words of it remain," he said.

WEAK BLOOD IS A REAL BARRIER

Growing Children Often Need Gude's Pepto-Mangan.

Some children grow too quickly—it saps their strength. They lapse into careless, desultory habits, or develop a shrinking attitude. Their faces look pinched.

The blood becomes overtaxed by too rapid growth; and poisons from the system take the place of strength-giving red corpuscles in the blood. Red corpuscles are those little red particles that swim in blood and give it its color. Gradually that child loses interest in its play.

Poor blood needs the building that the iron in Gude's Pepto-Mangan gives to weakened blood. Gude's Pepto-Mangan enriches the blood by increasing the number of red corpuscles, and restores the blood by driving out the poisons. When the revived blood gets to work, the appetite becomes what a growing child's should be. Your druggist has Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid or tablet form. The name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" is on every package. Advertisement.

A PRAYING COLONEL FOR ALL-AMERICAN

When "Bo" McMillan, quarterback on the little Center College team, started his new historic dash around Harvard's left end to 6 to 0 victory the other Saturday he was sprinting into football's "Hall of Fame" as an All-American back for 1921. Football fans say that one performance, following his great three-year record, marks him as one of the greatest grid men of the age. McMillan, a Texas boy and Center College's small school located at Danville, Kentucky. Charles Moran, I league baseball umpire, is co-acting as the "Praying Colonels," as they kneel in prayer before every game. They lost to Harvard in 1920, their defeat in four years. It is predicted that Moran will go to a bigger school next year and McMillan become coach at Center. Pictures of McMillan and his get-away around end.

The Haunted House

By, FREDERICK HART

"Pshaw! There's no such thing as a ghost!" Cordelia Davis' voice was defiant. "I think you're all silly to believe such stories. There's no more harm in that old house than there is in a chicken coop."

"But Cordelia, old Bates says—"

"Oh, don't tell me what old Bates says! I wouldn't believe that old reptile on a stack of bibles. He's always telling the most awful whoppers, and he tells them so often that he thinks they are true himself. Why, you've all heard his story about the catfish that was so big that they had to use a calf for bait! He's the worst liar in the county!"

The object of Cordelia's outburst of skepticism was a group of young people who were sitting around the fireplace in the Davis country house enjoying the heat of the flames; for though it was early October there was a chill in the air that made the crackling logs very comfortable.

The talk had drifted from Bates and bridge to outlandish and haunted houses and some one had mentioned the deserted house up the road, stating that it was haunted, and adding the evidence of old Bates, the perpetual gilder of the Davis menage, as evidence in support.

A weird tale of moving lights and hollow groans had caused the company to sit a little closer around the fire—all except Cordelia. She shouted her derision at the idea, and overrode the objections of the company as she usually overrode anything that opposed itself to her sweet will.

"Why," she flushed, as a sort of crusher to trample all opposition. "I wouldn't be afraid to spend the night in that old place any time. I'm not afraid of Bates' groans and lights. There never was a haunted house, and there never can be. I'll go there tonight!"

There was a chorus of protest, and even Cordelia saw the absurdity of the suggestion. But she was not to be so easily turned from her position.

"Well, of course I couldn't stay all night," she amended. "Mother would have a fit—but I will do this—I'll go up to the house now and stay till midnight. Mother won't be in from the club till after then and I can prove that I'm right just as well in two hours as all night. Now don't try to dissuade me, for I've made up my mind. I'm going, and what's more, I don't want any of you to follow me and put up a crazy joke by making a lot of noises. I'm going up to the house, and I'm going to stay there till I hear the village clock strike twelve. It isn't far off and I'll be perfectly safe. I just want to show you how foolish you are to believe in ghosts and all that rot. I'm going now—good-night!" And before anyone could protest she was out of the room. Looking out of the window they could see her in the early moonlight walking rapidly toward the path that led to the haunted house, with a shawl which she had caught up in her progress through the hall thrown over her head. The company returned to their seats by the fire a little sobered by the incident.

"I think Cordelia's very foolish to rush off like that," said Betty Sterne, a pretty blond girl who was one of the most popular of the guests. "She might meet a tramp or a dog or anything. Don't you think some one might go after her?"

"Whoever went after her would run an awful risk of being eaten alive, retorted Charles West, Betty's suitor of the moment. "Cordelia's made up her mind, and nothing we could do would change it. It's after ten now, anyway—she's only got about an hour and three-quarters. And, of course, nobody thinks for a minute that there really is anything wrong with the house. Cordelia got one of her crazy impulses, and you know there's no doing anything with her till the mood passes. Let her go if she wants to. She'll come back about midnight and tell us all about it and everybody will be happy."

So the crowd continued its chatter, apparently forgetful of the obstinate Cordelia. But one man was moody and silent. This was Jimmy Westlake. He did not like the idea of Cordelia's being out alone, even though the ruined house was on her own property and there was nothing to be apprehended from tramps or other prowlers of the night. His solitude was not entirely based on disinterestedness; Cordelia had long ago entangled him in the meshes of her attractiveness, but he was by nature a silent man, who did not show well in the company of the more brilliant. If, however, group that surrounded Cordelia. So he had never spoken.

As the hour wore on toward half-past eleven, Jimmy's moodiness increased. Finally he could bear it no longer, and with a word of excuse went out to the garage to see about something he had forgotten to do to his car. He slipped from the room. Once outside he headed for the haunted house.

The broken edifice was ghostly enough in the pale moonlight, with its crumbling walls, glassless windows and shattered door. The weeds grew rank and unkempt all about it. He stole cautiously up the path to the doorway, and even as his foot touched the worn sill he heard a muffled shriek from within. Every nerve on fire he rushed through the littered hall and came to a door from behind which came sobbing mingled with an unearthly clanking sound.

It was locked, but his shoulder sent it crashing inward and he found himself in a room dusty with the accumulations of years, in which the moonlight filtered dimly through dirty panes; in one corner a huddled heap of white which he knew to be Cordelia; and across the floor something black and shapeless was moving accompanied by that ghastly rattle!

Jimmy's nerve was good, but even he was shaken for a moment. Then reason reasserted itself, and he kicked savagely at the thing; it leaped away with a snarl, and the moonlight fell on it—a small dog with a collar from which dangled a few feet of rusty chain!

In his relief Jimmy laughed aloud, and took two strides to where Cordelia crouched, her hands over her face. At the sound of his voice she looked up, then suddenly sprang to her feet and threw her arms around his neck, hiding her face on his shoulder.

"Oh, Jimmy, Jimmy! I'm so glad you came! I'm so glad! Oh, it was dreadful! Please, please take me away!"

Even when he explained that it was only a dog she refused to be comforted, shuddering against him and begging to be taken home. He helped her outdoors, and in the open air she found relief in tears. Somehow Jimmy's shoulder seemed a good place as a repository for her grief, and she wept unreservedly with his good right arm holding her close. And as she realized her need of him he felt surging through him his love for her, and then and there, on the path that led to her house he told her all that his heart had tried to express. Her tears ceased; but she did not draw away from his protecting arm. At the threshold of the house they paused. From within came sounds of laughter.

"And you were the only one to think of coming for me!" murmured Cordelia.

"I had to come
